

aggregation dams in val di muggio (ticino, ch)

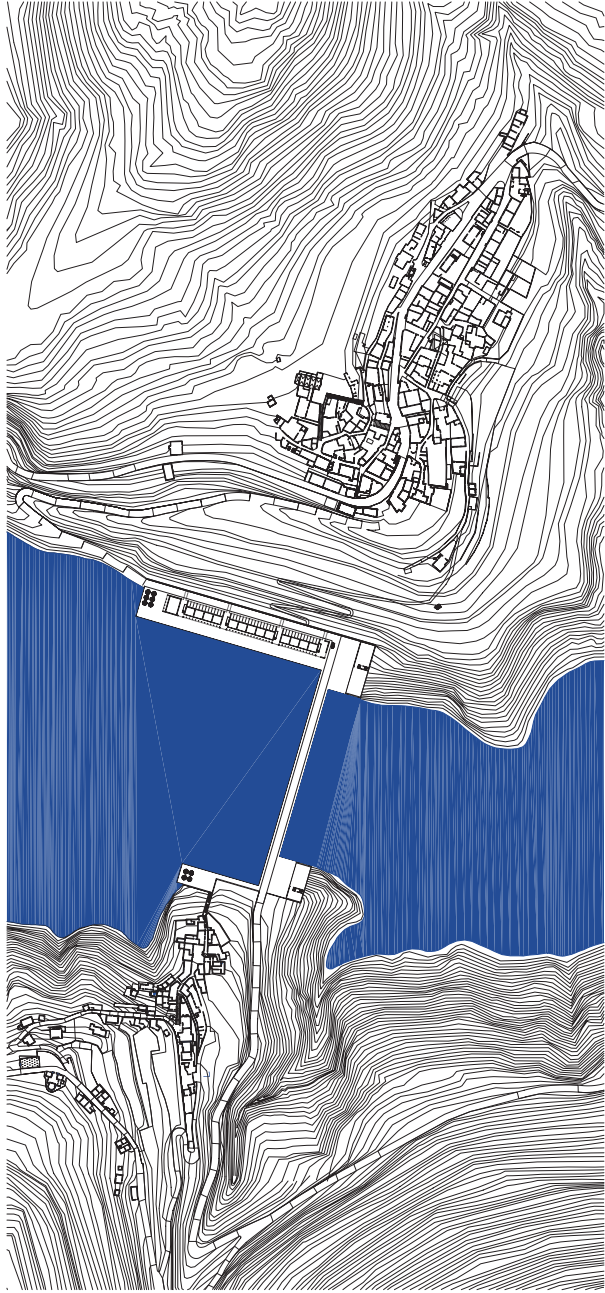

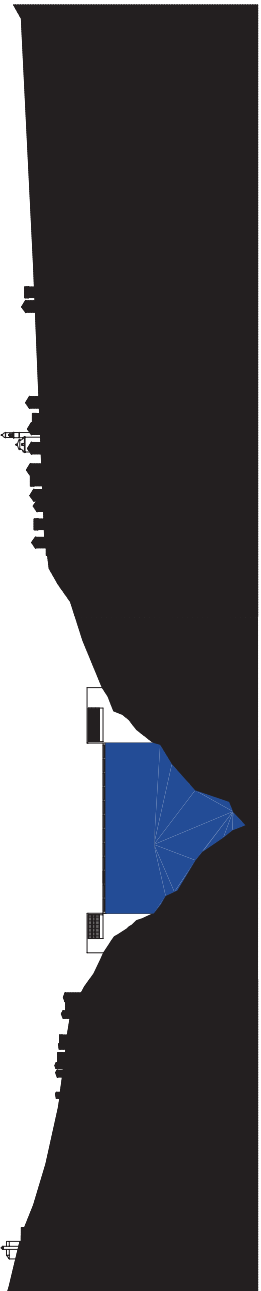

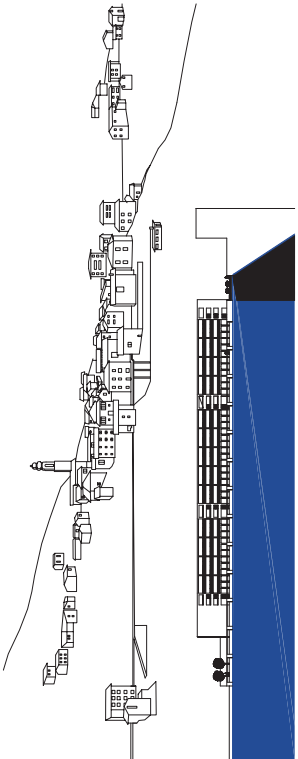

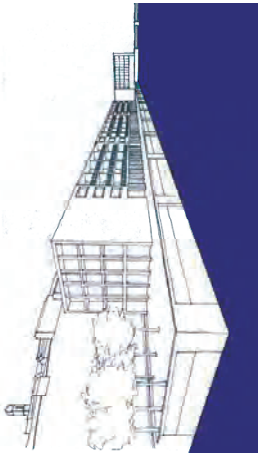

the context

six little towns in a little valley called val di muggio in the south of switzerland are becoming part of one unique community. designing landscape, and urban element we create the feeling of unity.

the valley is split in two parts from the very narrow landscape. with three strategically located dams and the resulting lakes we create unity between the two valley sides, and a totally new way to read the space of the valley.
